International Scientific Conference

REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN TIMES OF CHANGE: "INTEGRATING CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES FOR A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE"

November 21-22, 2025
Korçë, Albania

Conference aim

The aim of the conference "Regional Development in Times of Change: Integrating Challenges and Opportunities for a Sustainable Future" is to bring together scholars, practitioners, policymakers, and stakeholders from diverse fields to explore the complex and evolving dynamics of regional development in a rapidly changing world.

In the face of pressing global challenges—ranging from climate change and digital transformation to social inequality and economic disparity—this conference seeks to foster interdisciplinary dialogue and knowledge exchange that highlights both the obstacles and opportunities regions encounter in pursuing sustainable, inclusive, and resilient development.

By addressing a wide spectrum of interconnected themes—including sustainable development, economic diversification, social cohesion, digital innovation, education, agriculture, governance, and public health—the conference aims to:

- Promote innovative thinking and collaborative approaches to regional development;
- Highlight strategies for integrating sustainability, resilience, and equity into local and regional policy frameworks;

- Encourage cross-sectoral and cross-regional partnerships that support smart and inclusive growth.

While the program is structured around eight thematic areas, the conference welcomes contributions that explore emerging and cross-cutting issues relevant to regional development in the 21st century.

The conference official language: English.
